INTRODUCTION

Corporate Social Responsibility is a management concept whereby companies integrate social and environmental concerns in their business operations and interactions with their stakeholders. CSR is generally understood as being the way through which a company achieves a balance of economic, environmental and social imperatives (“Triple-Bottom- Line-Approach”), while at the same time addressing the expectations of shareholders and stakeholders.

CSR is a multilayered concept having four main aspects namely

- (1) Economic responsibility required by society
- (2) Legal responsibilities being desired by society
- (3) Ethical responsibilities as expected by society and
- (4) Philanthropic responsibilities being desired by society.

True CSR requires satisfaction of all four levels consecutively.

“Companies with an eye on their triple bottom line-economic, environmental and social sustainability – outperform their less fastidious peers on the stock market”. CSR ensures advantages to the company, boosts its brand value and avoids activists taking on directors in AGM on unethical practices. Employees feel happy to work in an ethical firm. It builds trust among shareholders, employees, customers and society. Socially responsible investment (SRI) is now a criteria used by many fund managers for investment decisions. It also helps attract talented people in the company and retain customers and suppliers.

CSR in CMPDIL

Here is a brief overview of commonly accepted benefits of having a sound CSR policy which inspire us to actively take up CSR activities:

- ❖ Serving all the company's stakeholders is accepted as the best way to produce long term success and to create a growing, prosperous company.
- ❖ The company's products and technologies are directed to contribute to the benefits and welfare of the people.
- ❖ The company creates win-win relationship with their stakeholders.
- ❖ The company grows hand-in-hand with their employees supporting them to reach their full potential and improve their standard of living.
- ❖ Company prosperity is directly linked to the prosperity of customers, suppliers and shareholders.
- ❖ CSR helps to creates positive image of the company through its activities.

At CMPDI, we view CSR as a way of conducting business, which enables us to distribute "growth" within our stakeholders in a better manner. The implementation and integration of ethical systems and sustainable management practices also form a key component of our CSR policy. At CMPDI, we do not believe CSR to be emanating directly from external demands; instead we see it as a process by which our managers evolve our relationship with our stakeholders for the common good and we demonstrate our commitment in this regard by adoption of appropriate business processes and strategies in and around of our drilling camps and offices spread all over the country. We have already emphasized that CSR and sustainable development are two sides of the same coin and so we believe in the philosophy that economic and industrial development must go on in such a way that no irreparable damage be done to the environment.
